MEMORANDUM FOR THE RECORD

STATINTL FROM:

Executive Secretary

SUBJECT: Strategic Planning for SECOM Staff

1. There is a current emphasis on doing long range planning throughout the Intelligence Community. The SECOM and its staff should also plan for near and long term requirements so as to be able to afford security support to the Community.

2. Such planning must include a review of current SECOM structure and modification proposals should be drawn to accommodate to variations in Community priorities. This does not imply that security planning must await definition of Community priorities.

3. Among the considerations to be addressed in near term SECOM planning are:

   - Revision of DCID 1/11 to acknowledge ongoing or completed actions related to APEX, unauthorized disclosures, and release of material to foreign governments or international organizations.

   - Review of security services of common concern such as the Interagency Training Center for Technical countermeasures personnel, the establishment of training program for adjudicators, the establishment of an Intelligence Community Polygraph training program.

   - Increased attention to Computer Security. (Vulnerability of systems to Technical attack and approaches to be used by [   ] teams STATINTL

- Review of the Community's implementation of DCID 1/14 investigative requirements.

- Establishment of greater uniformity if not standards for physical security and personnel security.

4. Among the considerations to be addressed for the long term Security planning are:

- Development of a Community record of and personnel security clearances in the collateral field similar to that being developed under the 4C program for APEX compartmented access approvals.

- Development of uniform investigative requirements for access to collateral National Foreign Intelligence.
